PROGRAMME OF THE MUSIC FESTIVAL. The Music Festival Association, it is announced, has completed the programmes of the seven concerts to be given with the tremendons choral, instrumental and solo forces that have been mentioned heretofore in THE TRIBUNE in the drill-room of the 7th Regiment Armory from May 2 to May 6. Mr. Thomas has come to Chicago, however, 2 to May 6. Mr. Thomas has gone to Chicago, however, and pending his return the details of the scheme are withheld, lest disappointment should be caused by possi-

Verdi, 1814. Aria from "Ernani."
Bazzioi, 1818. Overture, "Re Lear."
Rubinstein, 1829. Scene and air, "E dunque ver."

This arrangement of the pieces, while throwing no light upon the order of performance, or the combinations, which are matters of great concern in combinations, which are matters of great concern in programme-making, is interesting as showing how skil-fully the musical literature of more than two centuries has been gleaned by Mr. Thomas for the Pestival scheme. Not only the general progress of music in its various departments will be illustrated, but the individual syle of each of a long list of composers will be shown in a characteristic work. It will not be difficult for those who wish to construct the programmes for the different concerts to do so from the material that is given here and the facts that have been published heretofore. There will be four evening concerts, on May 2, 3, 5 and 6; and three afternoon concerts, on May 3, 4 and 6. One of the even-ing concerts, it has been anounced, will be devoted to the works of Beethoven; another to those of Handel. One of the afternoon concerts will present Wagner's music; another that of Italian composers exclusively. Here, then, is a sufficient basis for those persons whose curiosity will not allow them to wait patiently for the official publication to consort the pieces as they think they will appear in Mr. Thomas's plan. The educational value of such well-chosen list of compositions cannot be over-estimated even in New-York, where, year in and year out, so much and such varied music is beard, and a grand interpretation of it all is guaranteed by Mr. Thomas's leadership and the participation of the best solo talent in the country, a chorus which will unite the New-York Society, the Brooklyn Philharmonic Chorus, the Handel and Haydn Society of Boston, the Worcester County Festival Association, the Cecilian of Philhadelphis, the Oratoric Society of Baltimore and the Reading Chorus, and a band of instrumentalists numbering 300.

There have been many inquiries concerning the sale of seate for single concerts. They are answered by the sanonuncement that seats remaining unseld on April 25 can be had after that date at $3 for each evening and $2 for each afternoon.

ORGAN AND HARP RECITAL. The last of the annual series of organ and harp concerts by George W. Morgan and his daughter, Miss Maud Morgan, took place yesterday afternoon in Chickering Hall. Like the preceding recitais, I a fine audience, and offered a few features in addition to the old. One of Mr. Morgan's pupils, C. W. Ulrich, was permitted to open the concert, and he did so very credit ably to himself and his teacher with a theme and variations in A flat by Hesse. Miss Morgan played Al-Yare's fantasy on themes from "Montechi e Capuleti "one of the show-pieces of all harp-players of sufficient skill to play it-and a pretty " Gypsy Dance" by Oberthur. Mr. Morgan performed his variations on " God besides other pieces. Miss Fannie Save the Queen." J. Lovering essayed Mozart's "Non ind der" (had she chosen something within her powers she would have made a better impression), and place was have made a better impression, and pince was made on the programme also for some pieces from a quartet of brass intruments. It is a matter of regret that the concerts, which have given so much pleasure, should have ended with a transcrip-tion for harp and organ of the first movement of Beet-hoven's C sharp minor Sonata—a piece of music the renius of which lies se distinctively in the planoforte as hoven's C sharp minor Sonata—a piece of nusic the genius of which lies as distinctively in the panetorte as anything that Chopin ever wrote. Announcement was made from the stage that an extra concert would be given by Mr. and Miss Morgan in the same hall on april 15.

FIRES IN THEATRES

A FEW PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

To The Editor of The Tribune SIR: In relation to fires in theatres, two highly important things should be borne in mind : First, to have the appliances at hand to check a fire in its incipiency, confining it where it usually begins, on the stage; and second, carefully to guard against any panic that might ensue in the audience.

The proscenium arch should in all cases be built of brick, and an auxiliary curtain provided, made of some hon-combustible material, such as iron, and rolling like an iron shutter; or, a preferable material, being more quickly manipulated, would be asbestos. This curtain could be operated in the usual way, rolling on wrought troa pipe with the running gear and lines made of tron. Where there is room overhead, it could be lifted bodily, being kept close to the arch by wire ropes and rings fastened to the curtain.

The fire apparatus should consist of a fire main, with the necessary connections and hose, on the stage and in the fly galleries, overhead all, in the centre of the stage, an " annihilator," working automatically from the fire main, something like a lawn-sprinkter, but of much larger proportions, the outlets having these paper pasted over them to prevent any dust accumulating, the pressure enaily blowing the paper off when started by the prompter or stage manager, under whose immediate control the "annihilator" and fire-proof curtain should be. The fire main should be counced with a powerful steam pump in the basement, having an automatic pressure valve set at seventy or seventy-live pounds to the square inch, always insuring this pressure in the main during a dress rehearsal pressure in annihilator," opened, and as many lines of hose strucked as the erigencies of the case demand; while shutting of the fire and smoke from the anditorium would prevent any panie. fire main, something like a lawn-sprinkter, but of much nd: white stutting on the panic.

P. HENRY DUGBO.

Eashington, D. C, March 29, 1882. NEW-JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

THE ALLEGED BRIBERY OF SHINN. CONTINUATION OF THE INVESTIGATION-MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY TESTIFYING TO

THEIR DISINTERESTEDNESS. [FROM THE REGULAR CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.] TRENTON, March 30.-The excitement over the disclosures of corruption in the House of Assembly yesterday continued to-day and promises to result in important developments on the subject of legislative influences in New-Jersey. Mr. Shinn, who made the charges, has been around the corridors and halls during the day like an uneasy ghost. The feeling against him aroused by his affidavit may be estimated by the fact that when his bills came up in either house to-day they have been opposed very generally. There is a deep sense in all directions of the shame that has fallen upon the whole Legislature.

The exciting incident to-day was the voluntary appearance of John J. Kromer, the man who is charged by Shinn with having bribed him. Kromer and Shinn have been on intimate terms for part of the time lately, much to the surprise of those who knew both men. Kromer was understood to have been the man who caused Shinn's indictment in the United States Court for taking oyster-seed unlawfully. The case is to be tried at an early date in the court, and it was wondered how two men of such antagonistic interests came to be such close friends. The alleged britery would seem partially to account for this, but it is further stated that Shinn has taken a peculiar pleasure in placing Kromer in a position calculated to injure him. Kromer is a flue-looking middle-aged man. Shinn has not held the profound respect of the members during all of the session, and his confessions of poker-playing and other dissipations have not increased this regard.

The investigation was resumed at noon to-day. By resolution of the committee the members of the Assembly were examined separately as to their experiences on Senate bill 167, the roll of the House being called and the members responding, taking the cath and testifying. John J. Adair, member from Middlesex, was called, Mr. Cator saked him if he had been offered inducements to vote for Senate bill 167 or any other bill. He said he had not. Mr. Flynn suggested the investigation should be confined to Senate bill 167, which was so ordered. Phillip P. Haker, of Cumberland, said no inducements had been offered to him to vote for or against 167. Mr. Hell, of Monmouth, testified to the same effect. The following Monmouth, testified to the same effect. In todowing gentlemen testified in the same way: Mesars. Bond, Cator, Clarke, Denn (Speaker), Durrell and Farrier. Mr. Fiedler testified that some language had been dropped about money; in the corridor of the House, "Cul" Barcalow asked him to voto for the bill, and mentioned " $1,000 "; I said to him, "What do you take me for-a 'striker' ! If so you got a hold of the wrong man "; I turned on my beel and alked away; I was the only one present when the word "$1,000" was dropped; this was before the bill had passed the House and prior to the veto; I do not re-inember that he said he would give me a thousand dollars, but the sum was mentioned; he did not approach me after that. Mr. Flynn, of Passale, testified that no inducements had been offered to him for his vote on the bill. Mr. Fiedler asked witness if it was understood that if he voted for 167 that his (Flynn's) Water bill, Assembly 190, would receive support from the friends of the former. Mr. Flynn said there had been no such agreement with any person. Mr. Fritts, of Warren, said no inducements had been offered him. Mr. Gaston, of Passaic, said that never, in the slightest or remotest degree, had there been any inducement effered him. Mr. Goodwin, of Middlenex, said that Mr. Barcalow had asked him to vote for Senate bills 167, 139 and 89. Nobody directly offered him any money. He had understood presumably there was money to be had. A man named Pisher said to him that $1,000 or $500 could be had for voting for the bill. Fisher lives at New-Brunswick.

Mr. Greaves, of Passaic, testified that he was told there was money in this and he might as well get his share of it; no person ever offered him money; it was represented that it would be political death for him to vote against the bill; this by some of his constituents.

Mossrs, Griggs, Heath, Herr, Mcadoo, Johnson, Ladow, Leche Lawrence, McGowan, Moore, Matthews, Parrot and Richardson testified to ignorance of corrupting measures. Mr. Robertson said that he had the question of money mentioned to him by Mr. Barcalow in his Robertson's) o ffice in New-York; Mr. Barcalow said: "The bill will be up to-morrow and we would like you to come to the office and post yourself up "; he said that any expense he was put to by neglect of office duties would be made up; Mr. Barcalow said he did not offer it as pay, but thought he (witness) should not be at a

it as pay, but thought he (witness) should not be at a loss by neglect of his own business.

Mr. Ross, of Sussex; Mr. Scheup, of Somerset; Mr. Sheldon, of Union; Mr. Shields, of Passaic, each testified that no improper influence had been used on him. Mr. Smith said that at the American House on either Tuesday or Wednesday evening, while in conversation with a gestleman from Jersey City on the bill, the gentleman pointed to a man from Jersey City, and said he would give $5,000 to defeat the bill. A number of other members testified to innecence of knowledge on the subject, and the committee then adjourned until afternoon.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the session was resumed. Several additional members were examined as to whether they had been improperly approached, and all denied it. Mr. McAdoe testified that he had consulted Mr. Barcalow about the bribery matter, and asked him to withdraw the bill, hoping to save him from the discrace of the exposure. Mr. Robertson was recalled, and testified that as to the offer of Barcalow in New-York, he did not consider it an offer to bribe him. Had made three or four speeches as a member in favor of the bill. Every the arposure. Mr Robertson was recalled, and testified that as to the offer of Burealew in New York, he did not consider it an offer to bribe him. Had made three or four speeches as a member in favor of the bill. Every one knew his position on the bill, and Barcalow knew it, too. He thought that it was Barcalow's idea that witness should be paid for services rendered when a Legislature was not it session.

Peter Babcock, bill clerk of the House, testified that some men he did not know had said in his presence that they had 37,000 to defeat the bill.

John 37,000 to defeat the bill.

John 37,000 to defeat the bill.

John 37,000 to defeat the bill.

When the committee and this evening, E. T. Green, counsel of the Pennsylvania Raifroad Company, appeared as counsel for Barcalow, who was called as a witness. Barcalow testified that he lived at Somerville and was a general agent of the Pennsylvania Raifroad Company, appeared as a general agent of the Pennsylvania Raifroad on a yearly salary. His ditties brow the bill to Trenton each winter, and he was there engaged in looking after bills which might bilure the company, and endeavoring to defeat those which could not be amended. Mr. Barcalow answered a number of questions which amounted to a general and emphatic denial that he had paid Shinn or any other member any money or made any promise. He never had the conversation with Shinn that Shinn had testified to knew J. J. Kromer, had employed him on errands; never authorized him to endeavor to secure votes for Senate bill 167. Kromer never claimed to control votes, and witness never understood that he did; witness saw Assemblyman Convery once in the Attorney. General's office and talked with him about the bill; never offered him any money as binteel in Convery's testimony, had talked with Mr. Fiedler, but there had been no attempt to order he had been no attempt to order the meeting of the Legislature. Kromer was not emplayed by the railroad in any way. Witness was asked whether he said to-day in a lobby. "We are a body worked for other parties, except for the water our; never as Shinn before the meeting of the Legislature. Kromer was not employed by the railroad in any way. Witness was asked whether he said to-day in a lobby. "We are a body a politic. We are worth $100,000,000 or $200,000,000, and next year we will elect a Legislature which will give us haws and our rights." The questist was objected to.

J. J. Kromer, who is charged with handing Shinn the money, was called and testified that he knew Shinn well; had had a quarrie once with nin; was a witness against him in a suit; came here in the interest of oyster dile; had never offered Shinn money for a vote; never received any money from Barcalow. Witness was shown the letter which Shinn said contained the money given him and said the envelope had been addressed to Shinn by Mr. Chadwallader, of the Supreme Court Clerk's office, at the request of witness. It was delivered to Shinn at the request of witness by Chief Clerk Lawshe, of the Court. It contained a note to Mr. Shinn.

Mr. Kromer's testimony continued at length, corroborating Shinn's testimony in most respects except with respect to the delivery of the money and the offer of the bribe. Clerk Lawshe testified to delivering the letter to Shinn the envelope or not.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

COMPLETING THE TRUNK LINE POOL. AN AGREEMENT TO DIVIDE EAST-BOUND LIVE STOCK TRAFFIC-THE PASSENGER POOL CONTRACT

FINALLY EXECUTED. The trunk lines have taken the second important step toward the completion of the pools on all classes of their traffic. At a meeting of their Executive Committee at Commissioner Fink's office yesterday, it was decided to divide the east-bound live stock traffic and to advance rates on it in ten days. This virtually completes all the pooling arrangements which were prescribed by the agreement of last January, when the rate war was stopped. At the meeting yesterday the contract for the pooling of passenger business also was completed in all its parts, and formally executed.

The live stock traffic of the trunk lines has been in a disorganized condition for a long time. Even the demoralization which attended the grain and passenger business last year was surpassed by that which governed the cattle shipments of the roads. Rates on this business, in the language of a prominent officer of the trunk lines, have been "literally at sca" for a year past. Commissioner Fink yesterday said that they had ranged from 15 to 20 cents per 100 pounds. This is equiv alent to $30 and $40 a car load. Grain at the same rate really can be handled by the roads with more advantage, as the cars which haul it East return with west-bound freight, while the cattle cars generally go back to the quires more handling than grain or other kinds of freight. Railroad men bave been at a loss to explain the reason of the extraordinary demoralization into which live stock rates fell. By many it has been supposed in some way to be due to low-rate time contracts on dressed meals made by the of such freight to New-England having interfered with the profitable bandling of live cattle.

The agreement reached yesterday by the trunk line

Executive Committee provides for the division of the arrivals of live stock at New-York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and in New-England. Arrivals at eastern termin! instead of shipments from western termini, are made the basis of division, because the live stock traffic differs from dead freight in that it is often stopped and diverted from the route of origin on the way to the seaboard. This is a feature preserved from the old pool, which covered only the arrivals at New York instead of the entire Atlantic seaboard. The pool is to date from April 10 and to run five years. On April 10 the gross tariff rate will a feature preserved from the oil pool, which covered only the arrivals at New York instead of the entire Atlantic seaboard. The pool is to date from April 10 and to run five years. On April 10 the gross tariff rate will be advanced to 50 cents per 100 nounds, the net rate being 40 cents. The net rate is allowed only to such shippers as permit the Joint agents at western places to direct which route their chipments shall take. The old rate was 65 cents, gross, and it is said by railroad men that a large advance from the new fitty-cent rate most probably will be made before a month. The percentage of cach road, if its claim is disputed, will be settled by arbitration. Under the old New-York pool the New-York Central and the Pennsylvania Roads received equal amounts, and the two monopolized about 75 per cent of the entire traffic the Baltimore and Ohis receiving about 1 per cent and the Eric will claim a much larger percentage than the business of 1830, which is to be taken as a general basis of division, would warrant, on the ground that since that time the road's facilities for bandling live stock have been largely increased. The provisions of the live stock pool will probably be extended to dressed meats. This class of freight was included under the east-bound dead-freight pool, but it will probably be transferred, and the rate upon it made 60 per cent higher than the regular live stock tariff.

The signing of the trunk line passenger pool contract yeaterday had been delayed for the adjustment of several nation points of differences. The principal one concerned allowances for difference. The principal one concerned allowances for differences in fast time schedules. The Eric insisted that it should be allowed to charge a lower rate in competition with the special fast passenger trains to the West of the Pennsylvania and the New-York Central roads. The claim finally was allowed, it being provided that to ministence.

INCREASING ITS CAPITAL STOCK.

RICHMOND, Va., March 30 .- The stockhold ers of the Richmond and West Point Terminal Railway and Warehouse Company at a meeting to-day decided to increase the capital stock of the company $10,000,000, making the total stock $15,000,000, and to give each stockholder the privilege of subscribing for the each stock on a basis of two additional shares for every share held by him on the day fixed by the directors for the closing of the transfer books.

INTER-STATE COMMERCE.

Washington, March 30 .- The House Committee on Commerce to-tay heard the conclusion of Rep-resentative Reagan's argument in advocacy of his Inter-State Commerce bill. At the conclusion of his argument, Judge Reagan submitted the following:

Resolved. That it is the sense of this committee that some measure relating to Inter-State commorce shall be adopted by this committee and reported to the House at the earliest practicable moment after the River and Harbor bill shall have been reported to the House.

The resolution was unanimously adopted. It was then fecided to lay aside the various Inter-State Commerce bills for the purpose of proceeding with the considera-tion of the River and Harbor Appropriation bill.

TROUT TO BE SHOWN IN FULTON MARKET.

Every trout, like every dog, probably has his day; at least a number will have their day to-morrow, for the opening of the trout season is to be formally celebrated in Fulton Market by an exhibition of speckled beauties in the stalls of Eugene G. Blackford. The fish which are to open the season will be in the various stages of life—and death. There will be the egg, the youthful trout, age fifteen days, the mature trout, age one year, and the veteran of two years. There will be trout with all the varieties of speckles, from the red, white and blue to the fly speckle. The "Dolly Varden" trout of Culifornia, weighing five pounds, will be there. He is the only one of his family expected to be present on this occasion. Then the Tahoe Lake trout ent on this occasion. Then the Tahoe Lake trout from Carson City, Nevada, has also signified his intention of dropping in on the fly. The Carson River trout—like Ariennas Ward's cows, which were not cows but rocks—are not from Carson River, but Elke, Nevada. But the Humboldt River trout. which in the words of a Fulton Market man, sur-passes all his fellows in edible qualities, will receive much notice. The attention of vis-itors will doubtless be for the most part absorbed in contemplating all that remains of the so-called Rainbow trout from the McLeod River, which weighs ten pounds so Mr. Blackford says. Trout of this size are seldom seen with the naked eye, but an occasion will be afforded for doing this to-morrow.

From Leng Island probably the largest and finest display will be made by the Southside Club, which has been more successful than any similar club in the artificial cultivation of trout. In addition to furnishing all the angling the members of the club desire, it sends to market nearly 4,000 pounds of trout each year. The club will send in 700 pounds on the first day of the exhibition. These will be dead and will weigh (if required) from to 219 pounds each; 200 live trout, weighing by to 2by pounds each; 200 live trout, weighing I pound each, will accompany the dead trout. The same club will exhibit some Rainbow trout ransed in its preserves weighing 2 pounds each in the unpreserved state. The Suffolk Club will also make an exhibit of trout born and brought up on their own grounds. Nearly all of the Long Island preserves will be represented in the display. There will be trout from Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New-Hampshire, Vermont, Wisconsin, and from England and Scotland. It is expected that every State in the Union in which trout are found will be represented. Those States in which trout are found will be represented. Those States in which trout are not found will no doubt procure some by hook or by crook and send them on just as though their woods were full of them. Canada will do the handsome thing by the exhibition in sending a large number of Canadian varieties.

From the hatching station of the New-York State From the hatching station of the New-York State Fish Commission, at Caledonia, there will be samples of all the fish arthicially cultivared there by Superintendent Seth Green. The Caledonia exhibit will include salmon trout, black bass, California trout, and some hybrids. Frederick Mather, of the United States Fish Commission, will exhibit young salmon from fifteen to twenty days old hatched from the eggs of Penobscot salmon. Mr. Blackford will furnish toward the display some young salmon and trout hatched from eggs in Fulton Market in Croton water. J. Reynal, of White Plains, has promised to send a carp seventeen and one-half inches long, weighing seven pounds. This carp is one of several obtained by him from the United States Fish Commission for stocking his pond, twenty-two months ago. twenty-two months ago.

FOREIGN NEWS.

MR. GLADSTONE SUSTAINED. LONDON, March 30 .- The House of Commons this evening was overcrowded in every part. Mr. Gladstone, proceeding to the House, was warmly cheered by a large crowd in the Palace Yard. When the debate on the closure resolution was resumed, John Bright arose to speak and was received with loud cheers from the Liberal benches. He said that there could be no doubt that unless semething was done to deliver the House from its difficulties, it would stand before the country as having neglected its duty. If the proposed resolution erred, it was in not being sufficiently severe. He concluded with an appeal to the members generally to assist the Government in the discharge of its duty. Mr. Sexton said he would rather have his name go down to posterity with the the names of base in-formers who had sworn away the lives of innocent Irishmen than with the names of Irish members voting with the Government.

Mr. Marriott's amendment was rejected by a vote of 318 to 279.

Mr. Gladstone then moved an adjournment of the debate until Monday. The motion was carried.

RECENT INVENTIONS IN PHOTOGRAPHY

The Rev. George M. Searle lectured last night before the Xavier Union in its parlors, at No. 20 West Twenty-seventh-st., upon "Every Man His Own Photographer; or, the Recent Invention of Gelatine Dry Plates." He illustrated his lecture by experiments and by the calcium light and screen. He explained the principies of photography, and filustrated the tedious pro cesses of the common method with the collection film on the glass plate and the nitrate of silver bath. He then explained the method of making the recently invented gelatine sensitive plate, by means of which the disagree ble odors and many other discomforts of the old method were avoided. These gelatine plates, he said. could be bought ready for use, done up in portable packages, so that they were very convenient, especially for amateurs in taking views they might wish to preserve.

ages, so that they were very convenient, especiary or annateurs in taking views they might wish to preserve. These plates also had the advantage of being far more sensitive than the old ones, one second being sufficient to fix the image, thus making correct views of moving objects possible.

The lecturer then illustrated the process of "developing" the image on the gelatine plates, by means of ferrous oxylate, to bring out the latent qualities of the negative, and he exhibited on the screen several photographic transparenties of views in Florida, which had been taken there by Father Woodman on plates sent to him by the lecturer. The plates had been sent back to Father Searle, the speaker, and had been developed by him and transferred to other platinum process." of sensitizing paper, recently invented by Mr. Willits, in England. Paper treated in this way, he said, was the most sensitive known, and had to be kept persectly dry in tubes of calcium chloride. The development of the image on this paper was almost instantaneous by laying it on a hot bath of oxylate, of potassium.

The police say that he wrote to his father recently for more money and was refused. He drank heavily after this, and, becoming Jealous of the weman with whom he lived, he attempted to end his life.
